LECTURE TO BE GIVEN ON TREE CONSERVATION

St. Louis Man to Talk Tonight at Baptist Student Center

VIEWS LOCAL SPECIMENS

Other Programs Held in Interest of Better Homes Week

Of interest to tree lovers of Columbia will be a talk to be given at 8 o'clock this evening at the Baptist Student Center by W. B. Williams of St. Louis in the interests of Better Homes Week.

The lecture, to be illustrated with colored stereoscopic slides, is free, and persons interested in trees and their preservation are especially invited to attend. Williams arrived in Columbia this afternoon, and was driven around to view some of the venerable trees of this city. In his talk this evening he will offer advice on tree conservation.

Williams is a representative of the Davey Tree Surgeons. The subject of his talk will be "Trees of Unusual Beauty and Interest." He will be introduced by Horace F. Major, associate professor of landscape gardening in the University.

Proper Furnishings Will Be Shown A combination living room and bedroom appropriately furnished and the same combination inappropriately furnished will be demonstrated at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Hickman High School under the auspices of the P.-T. A.

The type of furnishings displayed will be suitable for families of moderate income.

Preceding the demonstration, in which several girls from home economics classes will assist, a group of numbers will be given by the school orchestra. Mrs. G. E. English will have charge of the program and will be assisted by Mrs. Robert Siddle.

Discusses Cleaning Equipment Miss Edna P. Ammon, assistant professor of home economics of the University, led a discussion on the economy, convenience and suitable storage of laundry and household cleaning equipment in the second demonstration for Better Homes Week sponsored by the P.-T. A. at the David H. Hickman High School this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. P. O. Ammon was in charge. She was assisted in the selection and display of the equipment by the home management class.

Home Landscaping Stressed "The house should not only be a dwelling place but should be a home, as well," said Mrs. Maurice Dinwiddie in a lecture on "Landscaping" the first meeting of the P.-T. A. Better Homes Week program, yesterday afternoon at the Jefferson Junior High School. "The exterior of the house is just as important as the interior," she said in stressing how unattractive grounds can be made beautiful at little cost.

She said that little love and higher ideals for the home are inspired in the members of the family when surrounded by the beauty and refinement which goes with attractive landscaping. Letting the children help with planting and care of grounds inspires in them love, patience, and co-operation, she said.

"It is important while planting and arranging the grounds about a house to leave a wide unbroken lawn area, as this can be used as an outdoor living room. Trees and shrubbery should be planted for a reason—to make a frame for a view, to hide an unattractive object, or to enhance the general beauty of the grounds."

Mrs. Dinwiddie said that in Columbia, spirea was so popular a shrub that the effect was made monotonous. Too large a variety of shrubbery on a small lot is just as monotonous, according to Mrs. Dinwiddie.

The tallest and heaviest trees should be placed at the corners of the lot, and never in groups, the speaker said. However, shrubbery is more attractive in clumps, the largest bushes in the center, surrounded by smaller ones and then by dwarf shrubs. On small lots it is best not to use the largest shrubs.

Mrs. J. M. Estes gave a talk illustrated by slides explaining exterior and interior before and after reconditioning them. In most instances, a good effect was produced at little cost. These showed that the oldest and most dilapidated grounds and rooms can be made delightful with careful and sensible planning.

The afternoon program opened with musical numbers under the direction of Mrs. John Riley. The Jefferson Junior High School orchestra played two selections, and Helen Burnett and Carter Harrison sang solos.

FINED $200 FOR CARRYING LIQUOR

Levy Gray and Partner Are Captured When Car Turns Over

Ten minutes after entering a plea of "not guilty" to a charge of transporting intoxicating liquor, Levy Gray, negro, changed his mind and his lawyer, this was in police court this morning. His sentence was thirty days and $200 fine instead of trial next Friday and a $500 bond. McKinley Bentley of Howard County, who was with Gray when the arrest was made, was also arraigned. He was dismissed with a stay of one year out of Columbia.

Local police, following up a tip that Gray was coming into town with liquor, were waiting for him on College Avenue last night. They chased him through Columbia to a point two and one-half miles out on Highway 40 where his car turned over. A five-gallon jug of liquor was in the back of Gray's car.

Abe Boone, negro, was fined $50 and costs for carrying a revolver last night.

One dollar and costs was the fine of Pat McEllich charged with disturbing the peace by fighting on Ninth Street last night.

Three men were fined $1 and costs on the charge of drunkenness.

In the preliminary hearing of Henry Rogers and Omellian Harvey, charged with transporting liquor on April 9, before J. S. Birrell, justice of the peace, yesterday afternoon, Rogers was held to answer in Circuit Court next Monday. His bond was set at $500. Harvey, negro, was discharged.

Harry Armstrong and Andrew Kanatkar, police, testified that they noticed a car parked at the intersection of Highway 40 and West Boulevard late on the night of April 9. They investigated, found liquor in the car and arrested the two men. Rogers admitted bringing the liquor from Jefferson City, but stated that Harvey was not implicated since he had picked him up on the way back from Jefferson City.

FIVE PATROLS ORGANIZED

$4500 Has Been Turned In on Annual Finance Drive

Forty-three men, representing all branches of business and professional life, attended the opening of the Scout training course in boy leadership last night at the Jefferson Junior High School.

M. F. Miller, chairman of the training course, opened the meeting, and directed the preliminary organization. J. R. Somerville directed the program for the remainder of the evening. Somerville is scoutmaster of the course.

Cecil Morrison, local field executive, explained the requirements of a tenderfoot Scout, and emphasized his address by various demonstrations. A. J. Gillette spoke upon "What a Scout Learns Besides Knots." Dr. A. W. Nelson of Booneville, who was to have spoken upon "Scouting Objectives and Programs," was unable to attend.

Five patrols were organized. These include: The Wolf Patrol, headed by Max Schwabe, of which there are six members; the Horned Owl Patrol, Earl Gordon, patrol leader, with seven members; and Ground Hog Patrol, headed by Paul Phillips; the Crow Patrol, under Fred McKenzie; and the Mule Patrol, headed by Louis Grinstead. Each of the last three have eight members.

The patrols adopted their own names, elected officers, and chose their own uniforms. In patrols they learned how to whip the ends of a rope, and how to tie the tenderfoot knots. A champion knot-tyer was chosen from each group, as well as a "champion."

Upon the resumption of the troop meeting, the winners of the knot-tying contests were brought forward to engage in a "national series," in which Marvin Berry of the Crow Patrol was declared champion.

The finance committee of the Boy Scout organization met at Harris' Cafe at noon today to discuss the final results and the success of the campaign. Approximately $4500 had been turned in this morning. This, however, represents only a part of the final returns, since complete reports will not be finished until the latter part of the week.

GRAVE SEEN NEAR WRECKED PLANE

Both of Australian Rescue Fliers Now Believed Dead

SYDNEY, Australia, April 23 (U.P.)—Both Keith Anderson, Australian pilot, and his mechanic, Robert Hitchcock, lost their lives when they were forced down while searching for the missing plane. Southern Cross, searchers believed today.

Relief planes were unable to land at the spot where Anderson's plane was visible in the wilds, but they were convinced that a mound near the plane was a freshly made grave. Under the plane's wing lay the body of another man. Wheel tracks in the sand indicated that Anderson had tried to take off after landing. A hole indicated that fliers had tried to dig for water.

A party left Wave Hill today with pack horses to try to reach the spot and bury the bodies there. The journey would take three days.

TRIES TO GET AIR MAIL STOP HERE

J. M. Allton Explains to Kiwanians About Postal Fliers

Movements are still under way to get a regularly scheduled stop on the air mail route at Columbia, J. M. Allton, president of the Allton Flying Service, said at a regular weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club today noon at the Tiger Hotel.

The Postoffice Department merely lets the contracts, but the contractors select their own stops, he said. "Mail planes are of a heavy type. All-ton continued in explanation of the air mail service. The mono-plane type is not used because the mail pilot must go regardless of weather conditions. The air-mail pilot, too, must be better qualified than the ordinary commercial flier, for the air-mail service involves hazardous flying."

There are now instruments which enable the pilots to "fly blind," All-ton said. By the use of these, elevation, direction, and the distance covered are given.

Two piano selections were given by F. B. Launer of Christian College. Guests were Prof. Jesse Wrench, Prof. J. W. Bank, Dr. E. Van Buskirk, Glenn Ogden, Richard Crouch, H. V. Geb of Temple, Tex., and O. L. Franklin of Fulton.

SENATORS UPHOLD IMMIGRATION ACT

Committee Disregards Hoover's Wish to Repeal Origins Clause

WASHINGTON, April 23 (U.P.)—President Hoover's program to repeal or postpone effectiveness of the National Origins Act of the immigration law was defeated in the Senate Immigration Committee today. The committee voted 4 to 2 to postpone action indefinitely on the question.

This was the second defeat for President Hoover by Senate committees in twenty-four months. The farm relief debenture plan having been upheld yesterday by the Senate Agriculture Committee over the president's objection.

The vote was taken on a motion by Senator Reed of Pennsylvania. There was little discussion and the meeting was over in less than thirty minutes.

Voting to postpone action were: Senators Reed, Pa., Keyes, N. H., Hatfield, W. Va., Republicans; and Harris, Democrat, Ga. Only Senators Nye and Johnson of California, voted to support the president. Senator Gould, Republican, Maine, did not vote. Four other members of the committee were absent.

Nye offered a resolution when the Senate met to discharge the committee from jurisdiction of the resolution to repeal national origins and asked for its immediate consideration.

CLEAN-UP WEEK OPENS AS DIRT FLIES IN CITY

Workmen Cover Most of Columbia North of Broadway

15 TRUCKS BEING USED

New Method Cheaper and Faster Than Horse-and-Wagon System

Tin cans and rubbish are disappearing from Columbia streets. Clean-up Week opened this morning. Starting at the east city limits, that part of the city north of Broadway was half-covered at noon today. A force of eighteen men and fifteen trucks are removing the rubbish placed on curbs by residents who wish to take advantage of the service. The rubbish is hauled to the city dumping grounds southwest of the city.

Tom Kennedy, street commissioner and supervisor of the work, said that the expected the workmen to finish the north side of town today. Tomorrow morning they will start at the east end of the south side, and be practically sure of finishing that part tomorrow.

An improved system of work is making the process more efficient, according to Kennedy. Greater speed is being made now than in any other previous year. Approximately seventy-five loads were hauled this morning, or about five to each truck; they expect to haul from 135 to 150 loads today. Kennedy also pointed out that the rubbish is being removed much more thoroughly with the trucks than with the old horse-and-wagon system.

Although more rubbish is being hauled by the city trucks than ever before, there is also more private hauling of rubbish done by individuals. The street commissioner lays this to the fact that Columbia people are becoming more conscious of dirt order and are taking more pride in cleaning up their premises regularly.

Not only is the truck system of hauling growing more efficient and speedy, but it is also cheaper, according to Kennedy. He estimates the cost of the clean-up this year at about $150, whereas the cost was $300 under the old wagon hauling system.

STATE INSTITUTION SURVEY ASSURED

Senate Passes Bill Providing for Creation of Commission

JEFFERSON CITY, April 23 (U.P.)—Without a negative vote the Senate today passed a bill providing for the creating of a commission to make a survey and report the financial and revenue sources of the state, the eleemosynary, penal and educational institutions. The bill has been passed by the House and now goes to the governor for his signature.

The passage of this bill makes possible the calling of a special session of the Legislature early next year to receive the report of the commission and to provide a way to raise additional revenues to fulfill the requirements of the institutions.

The bill carries an emergency clause and will become effective as soon as signed by Gov. Caulfield. It was one of the foremost recommendations of the governor, and he has given it much support during the present session.

Within ten days after the governor signs the bill, he is to appoint a committee of seven members. While the bill does not specify the appointments of members of the Legislature, it is probable that the governor will appoint two members of the Senate, two members of the House and three others.

The committee will be given an appropriation in order to carry out its work. The committee will thoroughly inspect and examine all departments of the state government and the grounds and the buildings, equipment, and records of the state penal, eleemosynary and educational institutions.

The commission must complete its work by Nov. 30 of this year. It will then make a full report to the governor, along with a detailed estimate of the cost of improvements recommended.

The report also will include the amount of additional revenue that will be needed to fulfill the recommendations.
